

Lee Moor newsletter October 2006

Fly away Peter... Fly away Paul

Lee Moor said goodbye to the swallows sometime ago but now the cygnets are beginning to learn to fly and head for the sea; this they bravely do in isolation from their parents. Most then fly up the coast to Berwick upon Tweed, I'm told. So as this article is composed there are three left to fly.

Global warming

Local impacts for global issues. Climate change is now a reality politically, economically and socially. The businesses at Lee Moor and beyond will have to take account of the changes and as such it is a classic threat and opportunity matrix. Toasty Heating Ltd and Econergy are well placed to help create a number of heating solutions for customers of all sizes. Toasty Heating is welcoming two new director employees Roy Iliffe and Keith Hudson, this brings a wealth of practical and project management abilities into the team now based at Lee Moor. The willow will be harvested within a few months and thus a first full cycle will have taken place.

Time to party

Lindsay, the lady of the house, reached a certain age and it was decided that it was about time the grain shed reverberated to a ceildh. 140 guests made their way to Lee Moor and a family-orientated 'Cowboy and Native Indian party' took place. It was a cracking night, with food from Fresh Element and a hog roast, and drink including plenty of real ale and plenty of homemade sloe gin, bramble whiskey and raspberry vodka. A few big cigars gave a high level of authenticity.

Hadrian Game Larder Ltd

The new game business is now adapting its premises in Throckley and we look forward to having the game pies and other products available at the Lee Moor Café. Seasonal wild produce can be very tasty and healthy - an excellent combination!!
